

THE Working Man's Newspaper.

SATURDAY, NOV. 29, 1873.

TO OUR READERS.

THE exigencies of a first issue will account to our readers for anything wanting in present number. NEXT WEEK it shall be our endeavour to give a much ENLARGED SIZE of Working Man's Newspaper. To the parties who most obligingly favoured us with their Advertisements for our first number, we beg to return our most sincere thanks. While hoping that the Working Man's Newspaper may become a good medium for advertising, and a deserving favourite with all classes, more especially with those to whom it is addressed; we may state, that we have no false fear while launching our little bark on the whirlpool of public opinion through which we must pass.
