

the director's cut

Guy Hamilton

In Conversation with Janice Forsyth

What do Sean Connery, Laurence Olivier, Roger Moore and Michael Caine have in common? They were all directed by Guy Hamilton. Having worked as Assistant Director on The Third Man (1949), featuring Orson Welles, and The African Queen (1951) starring Katherine Hepburn and Humphrey Bogart, Guy Hamilton went on to direct films such as the Cold War thriller Funeral in Berlin (1966), starring Michael Caine, and four James Bond films, including Goldfinger (1964) with Sean Connery. Hamilton will be interviewed by BBC Movie Café Presenter Janice Forsyth.

6:00pm, Tues
28th April 2009

King's College
Conference Centre
University of Aberdeen

Free and open to the public Make your booking at:

www.abdn.ac.uk/directorscut

UNIVERSITY OF ABERDEEN