Are you interested in appetite and obesity research?

Early career researchers, stakeholders academics and clinicians are welcome to apply to join in a one day meeting - funding available for travel!

The one-day workshop, funded by MRC, will tackle new topics to identify future research themes around appetite research:

- Food reformulation and innovation as a means to influence healthy and sustainable diets
- Big data approaches to develop understanding of drivers of appetite and food choice
- Supporting behaviour change - environmental drivers of obesity and food choices
- One diet does not fit all - bridging the gap between appetite research and obesity services

Date: 1st June 2020

Venue: Birmingham University Campus
