School of Law:

Most Recent Visiting Researchers

Professor Gregg Caruso

Gregg D. Caruso is Professor of Philosophy at SUNY Corning and Honorary Professor of Philosophy at Macquarie University (http://www.greggcaruso.com/). His research interests include free will, agency, and responsibility (both moral and legal), as well as cognitive science, neurolaw, moral psychology, criminal law, punishment, and public policy. His research interests are interdisciplinary and relate to the implications of the philosophical and scientific literature on free will for the criminal law and the punishment and rehabilitation of offenders. He has published widely in this area and is currently writing on his third monograph—Rejecting Retributivism: Free Will, Punishment, and Criminal Justice—which is under contract with Cambridge University Press. He worked as a visiting scholar at the Law School from September to December 2019.

Professor Lori Ringhand

Lori A. Ringhand is the J. Alton Hosch Professor of Law at the University of Georgia and a Fulbright Distinguished Chair Award to spend the Spring 2019 semester as a Visiting Distinguished Professor at the University of Aberdeen in Scotland. Ringhand teaches courses on constitutional law, election law, and state and local government law. She is a nationally known Supreme Court scholar and the author of the book Supreme Court Confirmation Hearings and Constitutional Change (with Paul M. Collins) published by Cambridge University Press. Her work on the confirmation process has been cited in major national and international media outlets, including the NEW YORK TIMES, the BBC, the WASHINGTON POST, and NPR. Her Fulbright research explored the different approaches to campaign finance regulation taken by the United States and the United Kingdom. She has presented her work on this topic at numerous conference and symposiums, including at the Gresham College London Fulbright Lecture, the Centre for American Legal Studies at Birmingham City University, the Centre for Law, Policy and Society at the University of Southampton, the George Washington University, the Mercer Law School Symposium on Election Law, and the Marquette University School of Law.

Dr Anna Juryk

Dr Anna Juryk, assistant professor at the Institute of Law, Administration and Economics of the Pedagogical University of Cracow, Poland is an expert in private international law, especially in family matters (alimony, international divorces, and adult protection). She is a member of the British Institute of International and Comparative Law and of the Fédération Internationale pour le Droit Européen. She belongs to the research Legal Research on the Child and Family. Anna Juryk has been a visiting fellow at the Max Planck Institute for Comparative and Private International Law in Hamburg, Germany from 2012 to 2018.

Dr Anna Juryk was granted a fellowship from the Minister of Science and Higher Education in Poland to stay at the Centre for Private International Law of the University of Aberdeen School of Law, from March 27th to April 26th 2019. She then conducted comparative legal research on Scottish, English, Irish and Polish private international and the relevant family law systems to study the legal consequences of Brexit for Polish-British family matters.

Dr Miguel A Marmolejo

Miguel A Marmolejo, Ph.D. got his law degree at the Universidad Cuauhtémoc, Aguascalientes Mexico in 2002, his Master international law degree at the Universidad Iberoamericana, Mexico City in 2009 and his Ph.D. at the Universidad de Estudios de Posgrado en Derecho, Mexico City in 2011. In each stage he was awarded with honoris causa. He has been working as commercial Notary Public (Corredor Público) since year 2007. He was recognized as one of the youngest commercial notaries in Mexico and by getting the highest grades granted by the Ministry of Economy Office. He has been teaching uninterruptedly since 2012 in various public and private universities in Mexico. In 2017, Dr. Marmolejo was appointed as research professor at the Universidad Panamericana; similarly and in the same year, he was admitted as a member of the National System of Researchers (SNI-1) at CONACYT, maximum distinction in Mexico for official researchers, whereas his line of research is over the recent Mexican Energy Reform as well as the development, implementation and performance of its public policies. Since then, he is being involved from academia, in developing upstream, midstream and downstream projects, clean power ventures and strategic networking with key energy players, suppliers and regulators, including the Mexican Petroleum Institute (IMP). Recently he is being accredited as social witness by the Ministry of Energy.

During his time at the University of Aberdeen School of Law from 28 August 2018 to 2 October 2018, Miguel has undertaken a great number of activities, including: attended various masters level courses regarding oil and gas (including engineering, science, geology and law); undertaken extensive research at the Law and Main Libraries at the University; undertaken detailed research utilising the University online database; undertaken seminar activities, including speaking to international masters students regarding energy reform in Mexico and energy security; and has worked on an academic article with professor Tina Hunter, Director of the Aberdeen University Centre for Energy Law (AUCEL), which will be submitted to Resources Policy, a high-ranking international journal published by Elsevier.
Dr Huan Jie

Huan Jie obtained her bachelor's degree, master's degree and doctorate from the Law School of Wuhan University (China) from 1999 to 2009. She is Associate Professor at the School of Public Administration of the China University of Geosciences (Wuhan) and Research Fellow of the Key Laboratory of Land and Natural Resources Law Evaluation Engineering belonging to the Ministry of Natural Resources of China. With a fellowship of the Chinese Foreign Visiting Scholars Program, invited by Professor Tina Hunter, Dr Jie visited the Aberdeen University Centre for Energy Law from October 30, 2017, to October 30, 2018. During her one-year visiting fellowship, Dr. Jie carried out the following research:

Dr Huan Jie’s publications include in particular:

3. Huan Jie and Ren Morong, “Constitutional Restriction on Disposal of State-owned Assets in Public Institutions - Taking the Demolition of the First Teaching Building of Faculty of Engineering of Wuhan University as an Example”. Accepted by Journal of Gansu Political Science and Law Institute. (In Chinese)
5. Drafting of a chapter “Energy Law and Regulation in China” to be published in the Handbook for Energy Law by Routledge. (In English)