

5 steps to managing your Leganto reading list

Leganto enables you to create online reading lists that can be updated easily, at any time. You can add notes and make sections/items available at different times. Linking directly to items in Primo means the students can access the material quickly, no copyright coversheets are required, and if the journal changes publisher, the link is updated simultaneously with Primo. When your course is rolled over in the VLE, the list is rolled over at the same time. This is a quick introduction to managing your Leganto reading list. For more detailed guidance, please see our extended guide.

1

Step 1. Access your reading list

Use the following route to ensure the reading list links to the VLE course:

- Navigate to your course area in the VLE
- Click through to Leganto – this short video demonstrates the steps in MyAberdeen

2

Step 2. Prepare your reading list

New Reading lists

- If the course does not have an existing reading list, you will be prompted to Create a new reading list from scratch; click on CREATE IT
- Enter a title for the new reading list. TIP: add the year to the title. Why? In the future you, as the instructor, will have access to multiple years of reading lists. Recommended format: EL1009 (2021-22): Acts of Reading. Click on CREATE
- Select a template: there are two templates to give an initial structure for your reading list: Essential, Recommended, Additional for arranging items by priority; Weekly for arranging items by date. Once selected, the base template can be adapted. If neither template is suitable, click on Blank.
- If you selected Blank, click on New Section; enter a Section title (this can be edited later)

All Reading lists

IMPORTANT: please enter the number of students registered on the course. Why? You can view the usage of items; we can decide if more ebook licences are required. To do this:

- Click on the ellipsis (...) to the right of the reading list title
- Click on Manage course association
- Click on the ellipsis (...) beside the course title; select Edit course
- Enter the number of students in the No. of participants box; click on UPDATE & CLOSE

Step 3. Add items

Add items – whole books

- Click on ADD ITEMS+; click on Library Search
- Make sure the Search in box is set to search All Library Collections
- Click on Advanced Search; search using the primary title and one of the authors' family names. TIP: do not search by ISBN – ebooks often have multiple ISBNs
- In the results, look for the ebook entry containing Available in format(s): E - Electronic
- No ebook entry? Look for the print entry containing Available in format(s): P - Physical
- To move the entry to the list, either:
 - Click on the entry; select the correct section from the drop-down list; click on ADD
 - Drag and drop the entry into the list

Add items – journal articles

- Click on the ADD ITEMS+ button; click on Library Search
- Make sure the Search in box is set to Search everything

- Click on Advanced Search; search using the primary article title and one of the authors' family names. TIP: do not search by DOI – Leganto struggles to find articles by DOI.
- Move the entry to the list in the same way as whole book entries

Other methods of adding items

- Add an item manually for items that cannot be found using Library Search
- Use the Leganto Cite It! widget for webpages, including an online bookseller's webpage for a book we don't hold as an ebook or in print
- Steps on how to do both of the above and more are available in our extended guide

Step 4. Contact the Library

Purchase Requests

There are four tags. Three tags are visible to the students: Essential; Recommended; Additional. Why use tags? They help the students prioritise the material; we can gauge potential use.

In addition to the above tags, there is a tag for requesting an ebook purchase. If you have essential texts that the Library does not have as ebooks, we will purchase a set number of items per course, subject to availability and affordability. Please see our FAQ for the maximum number for the current/coming half session. To apply tags:

- Add the item to your reading list in Leganto
- Within the entry, click on Add Tag
- Select one of the above tags from the drop-down list
- To make a purchase request, select Key resource – please purchase; that's all you need to do
- We will investigate ebook availability and will email you if the ebook is unavailable/unaffordable

Digitisation Requests

If you require extracts (e.g. book chapters or journal articles) that we only hold in print and are covered by the CLA Licence, we will digitise a maximum of five items per course and add the links to your reading list. To make a digitisation request:

- Add the item to your reading list
- Click on the entry to open the record; click on Digitization request
- Check the CLA scanning permissions
- Complete the required fields; click on SUBMIT

Please note: if you require an essential extract that we do not hold in print, we will purchase a digitisation of the extract, subject to availability and affordability. This will be treated as one of the two essential items for the course.

Step 5. Publish your reading list

The default publication status for all 2021-22 reading lists is set to Draft. To make the list visible to students, it is necessary to change the status to Published. To publish your list:

- Click on the PUBLISH button at the top of the list
- Publish list pop-up box: Course students – only visible to students registered on the course; All students – every student registered at the University; Anyone – includes people outwith the University. Please note: a gateway giving access to people outwith the University is still in development.
- Click on CONFIRM; your reading list is now available to the students

When you click on PUBLISH, the Library will also be notified that the list is ready for review. For 2021-22, the Library will check your key items and a further 10 items on each list.
