- Comfortable chairs for reading and working
- Low level tables
- Easy access to the wireless network

What can I do in the Break Out Room?

The Break Out Room is ideal for:

- Quiet reflective reading
- Quiet working on a laptop, accessing the campus wireless network if needed
- Quiet working in pairs or small groups

Conduct in the Break Out Room

The Break Out Room is governed by Library Regulations, so please remember:

- Eating is not allowed in this room.
- Hot and cold drinks in covered containers can be consumed here.
- Respect the facilities and please do not put feet on chairs, tables etc.
- Do not move furniture into or out of the room.
- Mobile phones must be switched to silent/vibrate – no conversations should be started or taken on the floors. Use the stairwells in the north core only for short calls.
- When working in small groups please pay due attention to the needs of others working nearby – this room tends to be a quiet space. If you want to engage in serious collaborative or group work you might prefer to use the bookable group study rooms on Floor 7 or the co-labs on Floors 3, 4, 5 and 6.

Occasionally, the Break Out Room may be used for events and other University purposes – we will try to publicise this in advance to minimise inconvenience.
