The following notes set out the University’s regulations governing the submission of theses for higher degrees. They apply to all postgraduate research students.

Research degrees

Notice of intention to submit

Not less than one month before your intended date of submission, and 4 months before intended graduation, you must give notice in writing to the Registry, The Hub, Elphinstone Road, Aberdeen AB24 3TU, of intention to submit a thesis.

The intention to submit form is available online.

The form requires name, discipline and School, the degree to which your thesis relates, exact title of the work, and an address for correspondence after the examination. You should notify the Registry of any change to that address.

The onus is on you to apply to graduate.

Submission

Two copies of your thesis and abstract must be submitted to Registry (not to your supervisor or examiners, although it is highly recommended for your supervisor(s) to see the thesis before submission). Both copies should be soft-bound, in case corrections are required. You should note that there may be some time between the date of submission and the intended date of graduation, depending on the availability of the examiners and the outcome of the examination.

Oral examination (viva voce)

If you wish to leave Aberdeen after submitting your thesis, you should ensure that you will be available for the oral examination whenever it is to be held; the internal examiner or your supervisors will be able to advise you on the arrangements that have been made. Oral examinations by telephone or video conference call are possible, subject to the agreement of the examiners, the candidate and the Registry.

Corrections

If the examiners require minor corrections to your thesis, you cannot graduate until the examiners (normally the internal) confirm in writing to the Registry that the corrections have been made satisfactorily.

Once the examiner has confirmed, you should return one hard-bound copy of the corrected thesis together with an electronic copy to the Information Centre on Floor 1 of The Sir Duncan Rice Library or, by post, to the Thesis Officer, Room 106, The Sir Duncan Rice Library, Aberdeen, AB24 3AA.

Submission requirements of a thesis

The regulations state that every thesis submitted for a higher degree must:

1. Contain, bound in, a summary of its salient points.
2. Contain, bound in, a signed declaration stating that:
   - the thesis has been composed by the candidate
   - it has not been accepted in any previous application for a degree
   - the work has been done by the candidate (if joint work, it should be clearly indicated which part is the candidate’s independent contribution)
3. Be accompanied by a separate copy of the abstract, not exceeding 300 words to go to the Registry Office (which may be published by the University).
   - For the soft-bound thesis, this should be printed on a single sheet of international paper size A4 (210x297mm) paper and should show the author and title of the thesis. For the hard-bound thesis, only an electronic copy is required to be handed in at the Library.
4. Be accompanied by the Thesis Deposit and Declaration Checklist form, detailing any limitation on the Inter Library Loan, photocopying or inclusion in any digital repository of the thesis for supply to any bona fide library or research worker.
5. Be accompanied by written justification approved by the Supervisor(s) and Head of School concerned if the thesis is to be withheld from consultation on the grounds of confidentiality. (See document: Thesis Deposit and Declaration Checklist)
The TITLE PAGE should contain:

1. The title of the thesis
2. The statement: 'A thesis presented for the degree of... at the University of Aberdeen'
3. The name of the author, academic qualifications and where obtained
4. The year of submission (for soft-bound theses)
   The year of award (for hard-bound theses)

Maximum length of the thesis
If you are to be examined by thesis, the regulations specify maximum lengths, which you must not exceed except with the special permission of Senate, as follows:

University of Aberdeen Research Degrees
PhD, EngD, MD and ChM 100,000 words
EdD 60,000 words
MPhil 70,000 words
One year Master's degree 40,000 words

It should be noted that these figures are intended only as an approximate guide to maximum lengths. They include appendices and footnotes, but not bibliographies, statistical and computational compilations and analogous illustrative material (maps, facsimile documents etc). The above word-counts are upper word limits and you are encouraged to do a final word count. If your thesis is above the upper word limit, you must make an application to the Registry, giving reasons why your thesis cannot be reduced in length. Remember the hallmark of a good thesis is quality, not quantity!

General layout of the thesis
While the regulations above must be followed precisely, on many aspects there is considerable variation between layouts preferred in different Schools. If in doubt, consult your supervisor to establish what is standard practice for your School.

Preliminary matter
This may include acknowledgements, table of contents, list of illustrations, abbreviations used etc. Consult recent theses and your supervisor to establish what is standard practice for your School.

Diagrams and Illustrations
These should be placed as close to the appropriate text as possible. If they are larger than the paper size of the text, they should be bound in a separate volume, the binding of which must correspond to that of the text. Alternatively, they may be mounted on a guard sheet and folded, or folded in a pocket, or saved onto CD-Rom. For the hard-bound thesis, this can be placed in a pocket on the inner board. You should discuss the academic content and layout of diagrams and illustrations with your supervisor.

Footnotes and references
There are no hard and fast rules for these. Follow the advice of your supervisor. You may however find it helpful to consult Library guides on referencing.

Typing/word processing
Every thesis must:
- be typewritten or printed, on one side only, on A4 size paper.

Use double or one-and-a-half spacing for the main text and single spacing for indented quotations, footnotes, references and bibliography
- for a portrait page, leave margins of no less than 35mm on the left side for binding and no less than 15mm on the other three sides. For landscape pages, the margins would be no less than 35mm on top and 15mm on the sides. We strongly recommend that you follow the British Standard on the presentation of theses, BS4821: 1990
- Notwithstanding the British Standard, the Senatus Academicus has agreed that the main body of the text should be no less than point size 12.

Binding and illustrations
For examination you must submit two soft-bound copies of your thesis to the Registry who will send these on to your examiners. Once the work has been examined and accepted, you must submit one hard-bound copy of the thesis together with an electronic copy and a completed thesis deposit declaration and checklist to the Information Centre at The Sir Duncan Rice Library. (Floor 1)

Hard-bound copy
The front board of the hard-bound copy should bear the title and author's name. The degree and author's name and the year of award should appear on the spine, reading downwards when on shelf, from top to bottom.

Published papers should be original reprints, printed to 80% scale and should be bound either as a chapter or an appendix. Alternatively, they can be saved on CD-ROM and enclosed in a pocket inside the back cover.

If photocopies of published papers are to be included in the thesis, the publisher's formal permission should be obtained and, where appropriate, the permission of any joint authors. A note that permission has been obtained should be included in the thesis.

Photographs must be original prints or laser copies of original prints (as long as the quality of the original prints is maintained) in all your submitted copies.
Accompanying materials in form of electronic files, e.g. your data set, should be saved on a CD or DVD and placed in a plastic pocket attached to the inside back cover of the hard copy. Do not forget to mention these in your table of contents.

Accompanying materials should include:

1. Audio material in WAV files
2. Video material in AVI or MOV files
3. Scores in non-editable PDF files

A thesis which would be more than 420 pages should be finally bound as two separate matching volumes, with a title page in each and an indication of the volume number.

Arrangements should be made with the Print Shop several weeks before the submission date.

Binding type

The Print Shop will bind theses according to the University's standard. If using an external binding agency, theses should adhere to the following:

- The binding shall be sewn so that leaves cannot be removed or replaced
- The front and rear boards should be of sufficient rigidity to support the weight of the work when standing upright and covered with buckram or similar book cloth.
- The front board should bear the title of the work and the author's name. The spine should bear the degree for which the work was submitted, the author's name and the year of presentation reading left to right when the front board is uppermost.
- All lettering on the cover shall be embossed in gold in a serif font 4.5mm in height.

Electronic copy

An electronic copy of your thesis needs to be sent to the Library via email: cataloguing@abdn.ac.uk. Or ask Print Shop to forward it if you do the printing with them. For large files you can use: https://zendto.abdn.ac.uk

You need to obtain permission from the copyright holder in order to include any third-party copyright material in the electronic copy of your thesis. Examples of third-party copyright material include illustrations and extracts or quotations from other publications. You will also need to seek permission to include any original reprints of your published papers. Finally, you will need to get permission from everyone involved in the performance and production of any audio or video recording.

Your electronic submission should include:

1. An electronic copy of the thesis identical to the original complete thesis in a single PDF file
2. An edited electronic copy of the thesis with all uncleaned third-party copyright material removed in a single PDF file (if required)
3. An electronic copy of the abstract not exceeding 300 words in PDF or Word document

Thesis printing and binding services

The following services are available from the Print Shop, 23 St Machar Drive.

The Print Shop offers an all-in-one service for thesis printing, in black-and-white and colour, either from your own file or directly sent to us by email in PDF format. If files are larger than 20MB (Outlook attachment's size limit) then you can send them to Print Shop via: https://zendto.abdn.ac.uk (preferable) or drop by the Printshop with your usb.

The Print Shop is where all binding orders are processed. The staff can advise you on how your thesis should be presented and also show you samples of the many other binding services on offer, including comb and heat binding.

UniPrint also offers a full range of photographic and reprographic services (tel. 01224 272594), e.g. laser colour printing, lamination, scanning, A0 posters etc. UniPrint offers the only complete binding service north of Falkirk.

The thesis binding services range from a normal one week turnaround to a special 2 or 3 day service (Monday to Friday, at the discretion of the bindery).

A typical hard bound volume has a maximum thickness of 420 pages of 80g paper and charges include up to 4 lines of standard lettering (one line = 38 characters including spaces) on the front board and the spine lettering line. The UOA crest is optional and will incur an extra cost.

Theses of exceptional thickness may have to be split into two or more volumes. There are additional costs for pockets, additional or unusual lettering requirements, etc.

Margins and folded papers or plates

To ensure that text or folded plates are not cut off during the trimming process (all these will have a 2mm trim of all three edges) make sure that the margins are adequate.

- Margins should be at least 35mm on the binding edge and 15mm on the other edges
- Folded material must be at least 5mm short of the foredge. A3 folding info can be found here: www.abdn.ac.uk/it/student/print/services-1137.php#panel1211

This ensures that there will be no loss of text – a charge will be made for refolding a thesis.
Check collation
Please ensure that all pages are correctly placed in their proper order as we do not check or change your pages once work has begun. If an incorrectly collated thesis is bound or partially bound, the mistake can only be rectified after consultation with the Senior Bindery Technician – an extra charge would be made for this task.

Service times
You should allow a minimum of 5 working days for UniPrint to bind your hard bound thesis.
Soft-bound thesis prices vary dependent on size and style:
- Card style - Same day service if submitted by 10.00am
- Metal style - from 30 minute service

Useful reading on thesis preparation
The Library has a number of manuals on thesis preparation and project writing, generally classified at shelfmark 029.6.
These include BS4821: 1990, British Standard Recommendations for the Presentation of Theses and Dissertations (London: British Standards Institution, 1990). This standard has now been officially withdrawn but as it has not been replaced with anything else it still offers the best guidance.

Additional information on copyright
If you are intending to include in your thesis extracts from other publications or illustrations such as images, maps, photographs, figures, etc., you will need to seek permission from the copyright holder, as an electronic version of your thesis will usually be made available online. If you are unable to gain permission to reproduce such material, this does not mean that your thesis cannot be accepted, or that you are expected to pay for permission to be granted.

It means only that your thesis cannot be made available online, or that the version which is made available online must omit the copyright material. In such a case, two electronic versions of the completed thesis should be submitted, one an exact copy of the print version, and the other with any copyright material removed.

Details of any material which has been removed should be listed in the appropriate area of the Thesis Deposit Declaration and Checklist.

A short quotation from a published work which has been properly acknowledged and referenced probably does not need permission to use, but if in doubt, it is always best to seek permission.

You will also need to seek permission from the relevant publisher to include in your thesis any journal articles you may have published.

How should you go about seeking permission?
In order to ask permission to reproduce 3rd party material in the electronic version of your thesis, you should contact the rights holder. For material from books and journals, you should first contact the publisher. Publishers’ websites may give guidance on how to seek permission. If the publishers are not the rights holder, then they should be able to put you in touch with the person who is. If permission is granted, this should be acknowledged at the appropriate point in your thesis: “Permission to reproduce this … has been granted by ...”. You should retain any correspondence granting permission.

More extensive information on copyright and your thesis is available in the document “Keeping your thesis legal”
