

15TH

INTERNATIONAL GUT MICROBIOLOGY SYMPOSIUM

CO-ORGANISED SINCE 1997

BY CLERMONT-FERRAND
(FRANCE) AND ABERDEEN
(SCOTLAND) EVERY TWO YEARS

INTRODUCTION

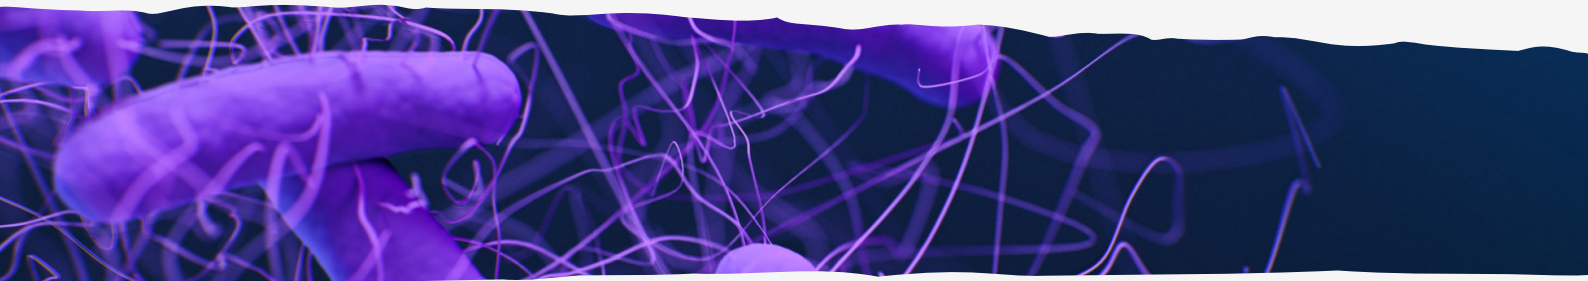

It is a great pleasure to invite you to participate in the 15th International Gut Microbiology Symposium running from 1 - 3 June 2027, at the University of Aberdeen, Scotland.

The 2027 International Gut Microbiology Symposium will be the 15th Joint Symposium on gut microbiology organised by the Rowett Institute, University of Aberdeen, Scotland (UK) and the INRAE Clermont-Auvergne-Rhône-Alpes Centre (France). Originally planned as a biennial meeting of the microbiology groups of the two institutes, the conference has grown globally and attracts 200-400 delegates from Europe and across the world.

Conference topics embrace gut microbiology of all animals, including humans, farm animals, birds and fish, as well as related technologies used to study microbial ecology, genomics, and metagenomics.

Plenary lectures are given by invited, distinguished speakers, but the conference ethos has always been to give early career scientists and researchers an opportunity to present their data and findings alongside more senior colleagues.

Substantial time is devoted to the poster sessions to give ample opportunity for networking, and an active social programme with a Scottish flavour forms an integral part of the conference.

SCOPE OF THE CONFERENCE

The overall aim of the conference is to explore the role of the complex microbial ecosystem present in the digestive tract of humans and animals in maintaining host health. A particular focus will be on microbe-microbe and microbe-host interactions to advance our understanding of the role of these interactions in host welfare and health.

Sessions will include discussion of a range of topics including the microbiome as a driver of health and disease, the integration of human and animal health, sustainability and food systems, methodological advances, and the translation of research into health, agricultural, and environmental solutions.

The Local Organising Committee of the 15th International Gut Microbiology Symposium encourage you to consider exhibiting at or sponsoring this event, and look forward to confirming your participation and welcoming you to Aberdeen.

The conference is of interest to those working to improve human and animal health and nutrition through manipulation of the microbiota and attracts in the region of 200 – 400 delegates bi-annually.

CONFERENCE TOPICS WILL INCLUDE

- INTERACTIONS BETWEEN MICROBIOME AND HOST ACROSS THE LIFE COURSE
- NUTRITION AND THE MICROBIOME: EMERGING RESEARCH
- ONE HEALTH AND THE MICROBIOME
- NOVEL TECHNOLOGIES AND TRANSLATIONAL ADVANCES IN MICROBIOTA SCIENCE

WHY SPONSOR THE INTERNATIONAL GUT MICROBIOLOGY SYMPOSIUM?

Becoming a sponsor at the International Gut Microbiology Symposium offers a prime opportunity to present your organisation, services and products to a dedicated audience of professionals operating in this field. Sponsors typically commit for one or more of the following reasons:

NETWORKING AND ENGAGEMENT

Platinum and Gold sponsorship include complimentary access to the conference and social events that enable your nominated representatives to meet with a range of professionals working in the field of gut microbiology.

BRAND RECOGNITION

Each sponsorship package offers different branding visibility options, from inclusion of your logo in conference marketing products and social media posts, to hosting of leaflets and banners at locations around the event. Platinum, Gold and Silver sponsors receive dedicated exhibition space to engage with delegates and promote your goods and services.

INDUSTRY SUPPORT

The International Gut Microbiology Symposium brings together scientists and researchers who are pursuing new advances and expanding knowledge in gut health and nutrition. Your company will gain recognition as a sponsor, and as a partner in the pursuit of further knowledge and innovation.
