

FELLOW-ELECTORS! BEWARE!!

OF

Placards having for their object the leading you into a state of wavering. If you have made up your minds, the sooner you engage yourselves to your man the better; you serve his cause lukewarmly by delay. Delays are dangerous.

It is SUPPOSED there are now two Candidates in the field—
Townsmen of your own; viz.

PROVOST HADDEN,

AND

Mr. ALEX. BANNERMAN.

It is perhaps intended to introduce a stranger to solicit your Suffrages,

another* MR. ROSS,

or some such "tried man," for you are desired to rest assured, that "a Gentleman who merits your warmest support, and who will pledge himself to liberal Principles, will immediately come forward." Should this be the case, "the 10th don't dance, trot him back again."

The two Candidates are named, make your choice; "England expects every man will do his duty." If Scotland have a like expectation, then shall the first be last, and the last first.
