

ABERDEEN WOMEN'S SOCIAL AND POLITICAL UNION.

An "At Home," under the auspices of the Aberdeen Women's Social and Political Union, was held last night in the West End Cafe. There was a gathering of about a hundred ladies and gentlemen.

Mrs Webster, after welcoming the guests, expressed regret at the absence of Lady Ramsay, who, on account of the illness of her son, was prevented from being present. Mrs Webster, continuing, said she could not help picturing another scene, and she was sure they would all agree with her when she said she could not help picturing Mrs Pankhurst in her present position. Mrs Pankhurst would not feel so much as some of them thought she would, detention in a strange home, but they could not help thinking of her suffering for them, as she was doing in prison. She called on Mrs Innes, treasurer of the branch, to address the meeting.
