

PEACE AND CONFLICT STUDIES (JANUARY START) (MSc/PgDip/PgCert)

57L2J5B1

Duration: 12 months full-time or 24 months part-time (MSc); 9 months full-time (PgDip); 4 months full-time (PgCert).

Aims: The degree is designed for students wishing to develop an advanced knowledge of the intellectual terrain of conflict resolution and post-conflict peacebuilding. It familiarises students with the central theoretical, conceptual, and empirical dimensions of well-developed approaches conflict resolution (or “peacemaking”) and the more recent mechanisms of post-conflict peacebuilding which have expanded and developed over the past twenty years. It also addresses and examines the intersections between these two areas of study, particularly discussing the interaction and overlap between peacemaking and peacebuilding theory and processes. As such, it subjects the processes of peacemaking and peacebuilding to critical reflection by considering the boundaries and interactions between the two, the limits to and challenges of administering mechanisms for peace, justice and development within conflict-affected societies, and the ongoing challenges for both of local ownership, evaluation, and sustainability. The degree works both as a stand-alone programme for students wishing to enhance their knowledge of this area to an advanced level in order to pursue a career in Peace and Conflict intervention practice, as well as providing the necessary bases for students wishing to pursue PhD and related studies in Peace and Conflict Studies, conflict resolution or peacebuilding in the social sciences.
