New to Teaching? Principles of Learning & Teaching in HE Programme

Designed specifically for those who are relatively new to teaching, and who may have only a small amount of experience so far. Runs over four afternoons, the next programme is scheduled for May 2017.

Topics covered include:

- How People Learn
- Assessment and Feedback
- Approaches to Teaching
- Design, Planning and Delivery: Large & Small Groups
- SWOT analysis of own Teaching
- Elements of Effective Learning Environments
- Working with Students with Learning Differences
- Evaluating Your Own Teaching.
- Scholarship of Learning and Teaching

Plus a small number of formative and summative assessments
Associate: Those with limited teaching responsibilities. Typically staff very new to teaching (<1 year), PGR tutors / demonstrators, staff holding research contracts, some technical staff with student-facing roles.

Fellow: Those who can provide evidence of a ‘full range’ of teaching responsibilities. Typically teaching / lecturing staff with >3 years experience.

Senior Fellow: Those who can provide evidence of a sustained record of effectiveness in relation to teaching & learning incorporating organisation, leadership and management. Typically (as an absolute minimum) Programme Co-ordinators. Two case studies (1500 each) to highlight evidence of the ‘leadership’ / influencing roles you perform.
