How can Project SEARCH help?

Project SEARCH provides the opportunity to experience different kinds of work and develop transferable skills whilst fully integrated in the workplace. The programme helps interns to:

- Learn more about working alongside others
- Show they are hard-working, reliable, punctual and able to do a good job
- Apply for jobs with local employers using the skills learned on the course
- Gain confidence and social skills
- Demonstrate work based skills

What is Project SEARCH?

Project SEARCH is an employment focussed education programme based at the University of Aberdeen. It is designed to be the transition from education to employment.

The programme provides up to 12 young people, or ‘interns’ with the opportunity to develop employability skills and get hands on experience in the workplace. Additional work related training is provided through classroom sessions each day.

The course runs from autumn to summer each year at the University of Aberdeen. The course takes place in various departments, on an unpaid work experience basis, whilst studying for a City and Guilds qualification in Employability Skills.

Interns can gain up to 800 hours of practical experience and will be supported throughout the programme by a lecturer and job coaches.

Interns join a team in three different University departments to undertake an internship (work placement) whilst studying to attain a vocational qualification.

Placements vary throughout the year to help interns develop an array of transferable skills. Placements include:

• Grounds Keeping
• Maintenance
• Catering and Retail
• IT
• Childcare
• Estates Portering Service
• Audio Visual Services
• Administrative and Clerical
