1. INTRODUCTION

The University of Aberdeen is committed to fully supporting you if you are pregnant or have just given birth. The Maternity Procedure outlines your rights and responsibilities and the maternity leave and pay benefits you can expect to receive.

The following definitions are used throughout this Procedure:

- Expected Week of Childbirth (EWC) – the week, starting on a Sunday, in which your doctor or midwife expects you to give birth.
- Qualifying Week – the 15th week before the EWC i.e. your 26th week of pregnancy.
- Statutory Maternity Pay (SMP) – a payment made to you by the University from the Government, if you meet certain qualifying criteria. Further information can be found in Section 3.4.
- MATB1 Form - To receive Statutory Maternity Pay, you are required to provide us with a doctor’s or midwife’s certificate (MATB1 form) stating your EWC or that you have already given birth.
- Maternity Allowance – a payment made to you by the Benefits Agency if you do not qualify for SMP. Further information can be found in Section 3.4.
- Occupational Maternity Pay (OMP) – The amount of maternity pay you will receive if you have been continuously employed by the University for 52 weeks prior to the end of your EWC. Further information can be found in Section 3.3.
- Ordinary Maternity Leave (OML) – The first 26 weeks of maternity leave.
- Additional Maternity Leave (AML) – A further period of 26 weeks maternity leave in addition to Ordinary Maternity Leave.

2. HEALTH AND SAFETY

The University has a general duty to take care of the health and safety of all employees. In some workplaces there may be risks which can affect the health and safety of new and expectant mothers and that of their children. Working conditions generally considered acceptable may no longer be so during pregnancy and while breastfeeding. The University is required to carry out a risk assessment to assess the workplace risks to women who are pregnant, have given birth within the last six months or are breastfeeding. It is, therefore, important (for you and your child's health and safety protection) that you provide us with notification of your pregnancy or intention to continue breastfeeding whilst at work as early as possible. In this connection, you are encouraged to inform your line manager, or arrange to meet your Human Resources Adviser if you prefer, at as early a stage in your pregnancy as you feel able to. As your employer, we will then reassess any risks to your health and safety and take appropriate action.

If it is not possible to mitigate risks, you will be offered a temporary variation to working hours, duties or working conditions on terms and conditions not substantially different from those on which you are normally employed. If no suitable alternative working arrangements are available, you will be allowed leave on full pay for as long as the risk remains.
3. MATERNITY LEAVE AND PAY ENTITLEMENTS

3.1 Maternity Leave

You are entitled to receive 52 weeks’ Maternity Leave, irrespective of your length of service with the University. This is made up of 26 weeks’ Ordinary Maternity Leave (OML) and 26 weeks’ Additional Maternity Leave (AML). Your overall maximum entitlement to maternity leave will be 52 weeks from the date your maternity leave started.

The earliest you may commence maternity leave is your 29th week of pregnancy. If you give birth before your maternity leave was due to start, you must advise your HR Adviser of the date of the birth in writing as soon as possible.

Once your maternity leave dates have been agreed, you can postpone or bring forward your chosen start date by informing your HR Adviser at least 28 days (or as soon as possible thereafter) before your leave was due to start.

In line with current legislation, you must take a period of two weeks compulsory maternity leave directly following childbirth and cannot return to work during that period.

Further information about returning to work following your maternity leave is available in Section 4.4.

3.2 Shared Parental Leave

If you decide to return to work early (and without using your full 52 week entitlement to maternity leave) you may be eligible for Shared Parental Leave (SPL) which enables eligible parents to choose how to share the care of their child during the first year of birth or adoption. The earliest SPL may commence is 2 weeks after the birth of your child. The minimum period of SPL is one week and the maximum period is 50 weeks. SPL must be taken during the 12 months after your child’s birth. Further information is available in the Shared Parental Leave Policy which is accessible from the Policy Zone at: http://www.abdn.ac.uk/staffnet/governance/policies-procedures-plans-and-guidlines-399.php.

3.3 Maternity Pay

You are entitled to receive 39 weeks of paid maternity leave. You will also be entitled to take 13 weeks of unpaid maternity leave following on from your 39 week period of paid maternity leave.

The University provides several options in relation to maternity pay benefits. Your entitlement to maternity pay is based on:

- your earnings during a specific time period before your maternity leave
- your length of service with the University of Aberdeen
- whether or not you intend to return to work following the birth of your baby.

The University provides 5 options for maternity leave and pay entitlements, with varying levels of benefits. The options available to you are outlined in Section 3.3. and summarised in Appendix 1.

3.4 Occupational Maternity Benefits (Option 1)

If you have been continuously employed by the University for 52 weeks prior to the end of your EWC and you indicate that you intend to return to work following your maternity leave, any statutory entitlements may be supplemented by the University's Occupational Maternity Benefits.
The pay which you will receive during this period will include any statutory entitlement to Statutory Maternity Pay (SMP) from the Government. Where you agree that you will return to post for a minimum of 6 months following your period of maternity leave, you are entitled to choose either of the following Occupational Maternity Pay options:

Option 1a
18 weeks of full pay, followed by 21 weeks at the appropriate rate of SMP

Option 1b
9 weeks of full pay, followed by 18 weeks of half pay (inclusive of any SMP you are entitled to), followed by 12 weeks at the appropriate rate of SMP

You will also be entitled to take 13 weeks of unpaid maternity leave following on from this 39 week period of paid maternity leave.

You should note that if you qualify to receive Occupational Maternity Pay and decide that you do not wish to return to work after your maternity leave or if you leave the University before the end of 6 months, you will only be eligible to receive Statutory Maternity Pay. Therefore, you will be required to repay the occupational element of your maternity pay, pro-rated to the amount of time (if any) you returned to work.

3.5 Statutory Maternity Benefits

3.5.1 Statutory Maternity Pay (Option 2)

To qualify for SMP, you must have been continuously employed by the University for at least 26 weeks at the end of the 26th week of your pregnancy and be earning a minimum amount (set by the Government and reviewed annually)*. If you qualify for SMP, you will be entitled to receive it for a maximum period of 39 weeks and the amount you receive will depend on your earnings. SMP is paid as follows:

- Weeks 1 to 6 - 90% of your average weekly pay
- Weeks 7 to 39 - 90% of your average weekly pay or the standard rate of SMP set by the Government (whichever is lower)

You will also be entitled to take 13 weeks of unpaid maternity leave following on from this 39 week period of paid maternity leave.

You may still be eligible to receive Statutory Maternity Pay if you leave the University after the start of your Qualifying Week e.g. if you resign or if your fixed term contract ends. In this situation, your entitlement to receive SMP begins either in the week after you leave the University or the eleventh week before your EWC, whichever is the later.

3.5.2 Maternity Allowance (Option 3)

If you do not qualify for SMP (i.e. you have less than 26 weeks’ service at the end of the 26th week of your pregnancy and/or your earnings are below the minimum level set by the Government), you may be eligible to receive a Maternity Allowance from your local Jobcentre Plus Office. The Payroll Office will return your MATB1 form to you, along with an application form (SMP1), to allow you to submit a claim to your local Jobcentre Plus Office.

If you are entitled to a Maternity Allowance, you will receive your benefit payments directly from the Department for Work and Pensions (DWP). You must advise the Payroll Office of the outcome of your claim as it may affect other payments made to you by the University.

3.6 Undecided about Returning to Work (Option 4)

Prior to commencing maternity leave you may be undecided about whether you will return to work following the birth of your baby. The University will allow you to postpone your decision until 6 weeks after your EWC. In this case, where originally you would have been entitled to receive the University's Occupational Maternity Leave benefits, you will initially receive any appropriate statutory payment due to you.

Your HR Adviser will contact you 6 weeks after your EWC and request confirmation of your decision. You will be required to confirm your decision within 2 weeks of the request being made. If you decide to return to work, you will receive retrospective payment of the University’s Occupational Maternity Pay entitlement, if eligible.

If you decide not to return, and so resign from your post, you will continue to accrue contractual benefits (excluding normal pay) until the end of your notice period. Upon the expiry of your notice period, you will continue to receive SMP only until your entitlement to receive this payment ends. You will be asked to give the University notice of your resignation as per your contract of employment. Your last day of employment will then be notified to you, in writing, by your HR Adviser. If you have given notice that you will not be returning to work, you cannot reverse this decision without the University’s agreement. This does not affect your right to receive SMP.

3.7 Not Returning to Post (Option 5)

If you do not intend to return to work following your maternity leave, you must give the University notice of your resignation as stated in your contract of employment. Even if you choose not to return to your post, you still have the right to receive 26 weeks of Ordinary Maternity Leave and 26 weeks Additional Maternity Leave. However, you will be required to repay any University Occupational Maternity Pay received over and above any SMP to which you are entitled prior to your last date of employment.

The normal qualifying criteria for SMP or a Maternity Allowance (as outlined in Section 3.4) will still apply.

The University is committed to seeking to avoid staff redundancies and the procedure that will be followed to underpin the principles and processes for carrying out collective and individual consultation is outlined in the Avoidance of Redundancy Policy. A joint management/Trade Union statement regarding the procedure to be followed in redundancy situations for members of staff who are on maternity leave is contained within this document at Appendix B. The full Policy is accessible from the Policy Zone at http://www.abdn.ac.uk/staffnet/governance/policies-procedures-plans-and-guidlines-399.php.

4. MATERNITY PROCEDURE

4.1 Prior to Commencing Maternity Leave

Notification of Pregnancy

In order for the University to assist you in making appropriate arrangements to support you during your pregnancy, you should discuss your forthcoming maternity leave with your Line Manager and arrange to meet your HR Adviser to discuss your maternity entitlements as early as possible.
Your Line Manager will arrange to have your workplace reassessed with a view to ensuring the continued safety of yourself and your unborn child by identifying risks and mitigating them as necessary.

You should confirm your Expected Week of Childbirth (EWC) and the date on which you would like to start your maternity leave to your HR Adviser not later than the 15th week before the date on which your baby is due (your 26th week of pregnancy) by completing a Maternity Leave Application form (Appendix 2).

On receipt of your Maternity Leave Application Form you will receive a letter confirming your entitlements.

You will normally receive a certificate from your GP or midwife called a MATB1 form around the 24th week of your pregnancy. It is important that you forward this directly to your HR Adviser as it is essential for maternity pay purposes.

Coaching

You may wish to consider participating in the University's coaching programme, which aims to support you in planning for maternity leave. The programme aims to provide you with support in managing the transition between work and leave, particularly planning for going on leave and planning for returning to work.

The programme is provided by a fully qualified external coach and sessions do not have to be held on the University campus. The coaching is offered free of charge, it is completely confidential and no feedback on the content of any coaching session will be provided to the University.

4.2 During your Pregnancy

Ante-Natal Care

If you are pregnant, you may take reasonable time off with pay during working hours for ante-natal care. This may include any relaxation or parentcraft classes that your GP, midwife or health visitor has advised you to attend. You should give your Line Manager as much notice as possible of the appointment.

Unless it is your first appointment, you may be asked by your Line Manager to provide an appointment card.

Sickness

During your pregnancy, if you are unable to attend work due to illness, you should follow the normal procedures for sickness absence reporting as outlined in the Sickness and Attendance Management Procedure, which is accessible from the Policy Zone at http://www.abdn.ac.uk/staffnet/governance/policies-proceedures-plans-and-guidlines-399.php.

Periods of pregnancy-related sickness absence shall be paid in the same manner as any other sickness absence. However, any period of pregnancy related sick leave beyond your 36th week of pregnancy may automatically trigger commencement of your maternity leave. The University may require confirmation from your GP that you are fit to return to work.

In the unfortunate event of a still birth during or after the 25th week of pregnancy, all the maternity rights stated in this policy will apply in the same way as with a live birth. If you have a miscarriage before the start of the 25th week of pregnancy, you will not be entitled to 4.3  During your Maternity Leave

Keeping In Touch (“KIT” Days)

We may make reasonable contact with you from time to time during your maternity leave e.g. to make arrangements for your return to work or to notify you of developments in your School/Section etc.

You are able to work (including attending training or conferences) for up to 10 days during your maternity leave without bringing your maternity leave or SMP to an end. If you undertake such work during your maternity leave, you will receive a full day's pay for each day worked. You are not obliged to undertake any such work during your maternity leave and you must not work in the 2 weeks immediately following the birth of your child.

If you wish to utilise “KIT” days, you should contact your Line Manager in the first instance. Your Line Manager will notify your HR Adviser of any work which you undertake as KIT days and appropriate arrangements will be made to ensure that you receive payment for them.

4.4  Returning to Work

You do not need to give notice of your return to work date unless you wish to return before the date stated on your Maternity Leave Application Form.

If you wish to return to work earlier than had been agreed prior to the start of your maternity leave, you should advise your HR Adviser, in writing, giving at least 8 weeks’ notice of the date you intend to return. If you wish to return to work later than had previously been agreed, you should either request paid annual leave or unpaid Parental Leave. Further information is accessible from the Policy Zone at http://www.abdn.ac.uk/staffnet/governance/policies-proceedures-plans-and-guidlines-399.php.

If you are unable to return to work due to sickness or injury, this will be treated as sickness absence in line with the University’s Sickness and Attendance Management Procedure http://www.abdn.ac.uk/staffnet/governance/policies-proceedures-plans-and-guidlines-399.php.

In accordance with HMRC Regulations, SMP is payable in blocks of complete weeks. If you choose to return to work early and only utilise part of a week of SMP entitlement, you will not receive any SMP in that week (although you will receive your normal pay in respect of any hours worked).

If you wish to return to work on alternative working arrangements, you should refer to the Flexible Working Procedure, which is accessible from the Policy Zone at http://www.abdn.ac.uk/staffnet/governance/policies-proceedures-plans-and-guidlines-399.php and discuss your request with your Line Manager and/or HR Adviser. You should raise this as early as possible to allow full consideration to be given to your request. If you do return to reduced, part-time hours, your maternity pay will not be affected as your maternity pay is based on your earnings prior to your maternity leave period.

Maternity Leave is structured so that it does not adversely affect your position at work. When you return from Maternity Leave, you will normally return to your original job. In some cases a return to your original job may not be possible e.g. as a result of restructuring within your School/Section. In such circumstances, you will be guaranteed to return to a post with no less favourable terms and conditions. In all cases your return to work will be without loss of seniority or status.
It is recognised by the University that when you return from maternity leave, it is important that reasonable steps are taken to facilitate a smooth re-integration to your workplace. In this connection, your Line Manager will provide you with appropriate support to ensure that you become familiar with any changes which have taken place in your absence and, where appropriate, to re-focus your research and/or teaching profile.

5. TERMS AND CONDITIONS OF EMPLOYMENT DURING MATERNITY LEAVE

All the terms and conditions of your employment remain in force during your maternity leave, with the exception of those relating to normal pay and pension benefits.

5.1 Continuity of Service

The date of your continuous service with the University is not affected by any period(s) of maternity leave which you take. This means that there will be no break in service during your absence on maternity leave.

5.2 Pay

You will continue to receive all pay awards and any increments which are due to you during your maternity leave. If you are on a period of unpaid leave when such awards become due, your salary will be adjusted upon your return to work.

5.3 Annual Leave

Your contractual annual leave entitlement shall continue to accrue throughout the period of your maternity leave. You can, with your Line Manager’s agreement, add your annual leave entitlement onto the beginning or end of your maternity leave. Arrangements for carrying over annual leave entitlement should be discussed and agreed with your Line Manager.

Where you do not return to work following your maternity leave, you will be paid for your accrued holidays.

5.4 Pensions

During any paid period of maternity leave, the University will continue to pay employer’s contributions to your pension scheme for as long as you continue to make contributions. The percentage paid will be based on what your earnings would have been if you had not been on maternity leave. The period during which you receive paid maternity leave also counts towards your pensionable service.

During unpaid maternity leave, the University will not make employer’s contributions into your pension scheme. You do not have to make any contributions, but you may do so if you wish. It should be noted that if you choose to make these contributions, you would be required to pay both employer and employee contributions to the scheme. If you choose not to make such contributions, your membership of the pension scheme will be suspended and the period of unpaid maternity leave does not count as pensionable service.

Further information about your pension benefits and how they will be affected by your maternity leave is available from the Pensions Office (pensions@abdn.ac.uk).

5.5 Resignation

If you choose to resign from your post, you will continue to accrue contractual benefits (excluding normal pay), until the end of your notice period. Upon the expiry of your notice period, you will continue to receive SMP only until your entitlement to receive this payment ends.
