University of Aberdeen

Equality, Diversity and Inclusion Policy

The University of Aberdeen is committed to creating a positive culture, based on tolerance and inclusion, for all its staff, students and visitors and to promoting the principles of equality, diversity and inclusion across all of its places of work and study.

This policy aims to ensure that individuals in the university community can reach their full potential through the freedom to be themselves, be authentic and to not seek to conceal elements of their identity to avoid unfair treatment. The University also will aim to promote equality, foster good relations between individuals and take a proactive approach to celebrating the diversity of its community. These aims will be achieved by maintaining a policy which promotes equality, diversity and inclusion in the selection, training, review and promotion of staff and in the selection, education and assessment of students. Visitors to and partners of the University will be welcomed and treated fairly.

The University is committed to providing a learning, working and social environment which is free from discrimination, prejudice, intimidation, stigmatisation and all forms of harassment and bullying.

No student, staff member or visitor will be discriminated against based on an unfair distinction including:

- Age
- Disability
- Gender Identity
- Marriage or civil partnership
- Pregnancy or maternity
- Race
- Religion or belief
- Sex
- Sexual orientation
- Socio-economic background
- Trade union membership

The University will celebrate and value the contributions made by individuals and groups from diverse backgrounds, seek to challenge inequality by encouraging the University community not to be bystanders to unfair treatment, and promote increased participation of under-represented groups wherever practical and reasonable.

The University recognises that individuals identify with more than one protected characteristic and that this intersectionality can be the basis of unfavourable treatment. The University commits to proactively analysing and understanding intersectionality and to take action to mitigate its negative effects where appropriate.

This policy will be monitored and reviewed by the University regularly and promoted throughout the University.
Implementation of the Equality, Diversity and Inclusion Policy

3.5 The University will take allegations of discrimination, prejudice, hate crime or any other relevant complaints seriously and will investigate such complaints, which may result in disciplinary action. Following investigation, allegations of discrimination, harassment or bullying may result in action being taken up to and including dismissal.

3.6 Staff or students who wish to make a complaint of discrimination, prejudice, hate crime or any other relevant complaint should, if appropriate, direct them initially to their Line Manager or Head of Student Support. Alternatively, other sources of support can be found in Section 3.3. Formal action can be taken under the Staffing Policy against Discrimination, Harassment and Bullying in the Workplace.

4 Positive Action
4.1 The University may take ‘positive action’ where appropriate to increase the representation of people from groups that have previously been under-represented in the University community. The University can take positive action in relation to individuals from particular groups if:

- they’re disadvantaged in some way in relation to work or study,
- their participation in employment or training is particularly low, or
- they have needs which are different from other people who don’t share their protected characteristic.

4.2 Positive action measures could include targeted advertising of jobs; including a statement in job adverts encouraging applications from particular groups; providing mentoring or coaching to address imbalance e.g. in senior management; additional interventions to support students e.g. where an attainment gap exists or to encourage applications from a cross-section of society.

4.3 Positive action is distinct from positive discrimination, which is unlawful in the UK.

4.4 Clear evidence is required to implement positive action interventions. Advice should be sought from the Equality and Diversity Adviser.
