Recovering Meaning in an Iconic Urban Terrain. A bull, a horse, a fallen soldier, a dead infant, a burning town. The subject of one of the world's most controversial and prized paintings. A bull, a horse, a produce seller, a crying baby, a thriving market town. Two descriptions of the same setting separated by over 70 years. Filmmaker Alan Marcus presents an observational study of urban metaphor in an iconic Basque village, One Market Day (30mins, 2011).
