If your visa is contained in a Biometric Residence Permit (BRP) that you have to collect from a local Post Office then you should first collect your BRP and then register within 7 days of doing this.

The requirement to register should be noted on either your visa vignette, BRP or letter from UK Visas.

A Police Registration Certificate is valid until the expiry date of your visa and should be renewed every time an extension of stay (visa extension) is granted.

You must also inform the police within 7 days if you change address or if any of the information recorded on the certificate (immigration conditions, passport details, name, marital status, occupation, college or university) changes. There is no charge for these changes.

When you leave the UK at the end of your stay, you must give your Police Registration Certificate to the Nationality Department at the Police Station or to the Immigration Officer at the airport or port.
